5. ☐ Mr. Dinneen stated that Executive Order 12036 does not alter the Secretary of Defense's responsibilities for IRA. He also mentioned that the systems that make up the IRA budget must go through continual redevelopment and he envisioned that there would be times when some of the assets would be classified in some other way and that new assets would move into this category.

6. ☐ During his formal presentation, General Scott, of the Air Force, put up a chart indicating that the BACKFIRE bomber had the capability for overflying the U.S. Mr. Kemp then asked whether the BACKFIRE bomber was or was not a strategic threat, indicating that Admiral Turner had said that it was not. A long discussion followed concerning the capabilities of the BACKFIRE bomber which terminated with Admiral Murphy saying that he would review the Director's comments and provide an Administration position for the record. Chairman Mahon commented that the bomber was not designed as an intercontinental bomber but appeared to be capable of being used in that fashion for desperate action. The discussion of this item was quite lengthy.
